AMAZÔNIA

La aventura comenzaba rozándome la piel. Haciéndome cosquillas por la espalda y regalándome un abanico de sensaciones que pronto despertarían mis sentidos.

Nada más llegar supe que debía vaciarme la mirada, desnudar mis pensamientos y vivir la aventura como lo que soy: un simple ser vivo más. Latir con sus colores, rugir con sus sonidos, abrazar su belleza salvaje y fluir con su río.

Así empezaba todo, conectando a través del agua. Pronto me di cuenta de que la inmensidad de su belleza reside en todos sus misterios, en el inmenso engranaje que ocultaba la selva, en su libertad infinita y su voz guiándote a través de la naturaleza.

Ese era el poder de su diosa: la Pachamama. Contaban de ella que era capaz de acelerarte la respiración con sus paisajes, hacerte vibrar con sus flores, deslumbrarte con sus colores e hipnotizarte con sus sonidos. Decían que estaba presente en cada elemento de la naturaleza, haciéndote sentir más viva que nunca.

Te hacía sentir como una mariposa aleteando sobre una flor delicada. Ella (aún) no sabe que la belleza es efímera, pero sí que sus actos generarán un impacto eterno.

Te hacía escuchar la sabiduría de los árboles centenarios, la música que genera el aire moviendo sus hojas, el aleteo de los pájaros al posarse sobre sus ramas y la velocidad del agua.

Te hacía descubrir cientos de colores, paletas de verdes, amarillos y rojos que te devuelven durante un instante a ese momento de la vida en la que miras todo con la inocencia de la primera vez.

Me hizo sentir que todo lo importante estaba ahí, ante mí, con su delicadeza salvaje, con la voz del Amazonas transformada en un eco que se grababa en mi piel para siempre. Porque todo lo que damos, vuelve. Y porque la voz del Amazonas irá, para siempre, conmigo.

The adventure started brushing up against my skin. Tickling my back and giving me a wide range of sensations that would soon awaken my senses.

No sooner had I arrived I knew that I had to empty my gaze, strip my thoughts and live the adventure as I am: just another human being. Beat with its colours, roar with its sounds, embrace its wild beauty and flow with its river.

This is how it all started, connecting through the water. Soon I realized that the immensity of its beauty lies in all its mysteries, in the enormous system hiding behind the rainforest, in its infinite freedom and its voice guiding you through nature.

That was the power of its goddess: the Pachamama. It spoke of her that she was capable of making you breathe faster with her scenery, making you vibrate with her flowers, dazzling you with her colours and hypnotizing you with her sounds. They said that she existed in every element of nature, making you feel more alive than ever before.

She made you feel like a butterfly fluttering over a delicate flower. She (still) doesn't know that beauty is ephemeral, although her acts will have an eternal impact.

She made you listen to the wisdom of the centennial trees, the music made by the air moving their leaves, the flapping of the birds' wings perching on their branches and the speed of the water.

She made you discover hundreds of colours, green, yellow and red palettes that take you back to that moment of life in which you look at everything innocently for the first time just for an instant.

She made me feel that everything that is important was there, before me, with its wild delicacy, with the voice of the Amazon transformed into an echo that was recorded on my skin forever. Because everything we give, it returns. And because the voice of the Amazon will always be with me.
